“ My late evenings just don't seem the same without chatting with my RN friend, Marge. I almost feel like she was my "kindred spirit" since she and I were married to "upstaters" and she came from that area. Many a time, we would compare "notes" about our late husbands.

During our conversations I would have to listen carefully, afraid that during her rapid speech, I would miss a quick witticism that was totally Marge. I know sometimes she must have thought that I was kind of "dull", but I never had the gift of "getting jokes" etc.

Lots of fond memories of her coming to work at Riddle, relieving the staff on my shift, and getting us laughing hearing about her day. This "fun with Marge" continued long after we all retired and our little group would have lunch together at Barb Birney's Springhaven Club.

Such a kind person. She kept in touch with people she met from around the world. Obviously, meeting her relatives in Lithuania had a profound impact of her. She never forgot them, and would send care packages etc upon her return. She was a very caring mother and grandmother who had more than her share of family heartaches with the early passing of her son and daughter in law.

My condolences to her loving sons.
