“ Aunt Annie was my aunt by marriage but I couldn't have loved her more. She was resilient and courageous. We had wonderful conversations. Aunt Annie had incredible challenges in her life and she always spoke her mind. I will always remember the coffee, great recipes and good books.

“ I have such wonderful memories of Nan; going to Atlantic City, teaching Alec how to make meatballs, and phone calls that always included her great, deep laugh. She loved to say, "I'm baaaaad," but I know she was one of the truly good people on this earth. Nan, you will be missed. Rest peacefully.
Love,
Janine, Sara, and Alec

“ My aunt Annie was one of a kind. You never had to guess what was on her mind, and she never hesitated to let you know. I will miss her. She was my mom's sister. She had so much knowledge of the history of the family, things I always wanted know. She had most of the historical answers. She had a few tragedies in her life. Tragedies which would cause most people to fall into a state of relentless depression. Yet, she never got to that point. She had a lot to give AND that's why she lived until the age of 93 with a mind a lot sharper than mine. I love you Aunt Annie. Anthony.

*Annie was funny, smart and always there to help. Her honesty and kind heart will never be forgotten. I feel blessed to have shared so many years with such a good neighbor and friend. She's moved on but has left me with happy memories, her delicious cooking and the times she just listened as a true friend. I'll miss you Annie. I pray you're at Peace. With much Love,
Terry*

“Some of my fondest memories of Anne involved her legendary spaghetti and meatballs - most often devoured stone cold from the fridge after midnight with Mare and two forks. Anne put up with a lot of our teenage antics, I'll never forget her indulgence. Sleep well Anne you deserve it. Gayle
