“ my name is Tommy Stowe, When I was a very young and naive drummer my cousin Shelly started dating this guy named art who was also a drummer, we got along right away and he helped me improve so much with the skill he just kicked it into high gear where it should've been and has maintained to this day. He also recorded and produced a 4 song demo for the first band I was in called "Bad Material", lol that wasn't our first shot of recording but when he came in and did that it said it better than any of the other stuff we ever did, so, I'm glad I had gotten a chance to tell him both of those things before he passed. RIP. Brother. tnk you. 🙌

“ To My Dear Friend,

It's hard to put into words the weight of your absence. You were more than just a friend — you were family. Your laughter and your sense of humor will forever echo in my heart.

I find myself holding on to all the crazy memories we shared growing up: just hanging out after school, eating over for dinner, house parties, South Street, Discovery, The Big A, Woody's, The Lakes and lots and lots of laughter! You had this incredible way of making life feel a little bit brighter.

Though you're no longer physically here, I know a part of you will always remain with me. You taught me so much about love, friendship, and resilience. I will carry your spirit with me, in everything I do and every step I take. The world feels a little emptier without you, but I take comfort knowing your love and your light will continue to live on in those who were lucky enough to know you.

Thank you for being my friend, for sharing your heart, and for leaving a mark on this world that can never be erased. I will miss you more than words can ever express, but I will never forget you. I love you and you will always be in my heart.

Until we meet again, my dear friend ❤️❤️

Love, Carol

“ I’m gonna miss Artie. The laughter and memories we shared are gonna last a lifetime! I only wish there could have been more. His determination, self-awareness, and belief in himself and his community was inspiring. He took no one for granted. Towards the end of his life he was fixing one of my snare drums that was so damaged the shell was coming apart and he said to me, “it’s gonna sound better than it did from the factory.” That’s the Artie I’m gonna remember.

Artie was real! He never sugar coated anything. He told you the way it was. He was truly a good person. He loved you, unconditionally. He was one of my biggest fans and I was one of his. We were two people in the music business who had a mutual respect for each other. I would sing at open mics or actual gigs and if Artie was there, he would ask if he could drum for me. My answer was always...yes. RIP my dear, wonderful, and amazing friend. Until we meet again. I love you!❤️
