I just want to say this tribute is beautiful and I'm sitting here crying as if I knew him but I did not know him. but it's like I did because I know you Martine and I have known you from a baby just like your sisters. and I grew so close to you all that I can feel the sorrow this is too sad you do not deserve this. this is not fair and as I speak this message I am in tears because you are all like family and Martine you were kind of like a daughter to me in a way because I came over so many times to visit and you all embraced me hugged me showed me your love and that's a reflection of your great parents . I hope we can all see each other again soon because I want to give you a great embrace and a strong hug because I feel for you try to be strong martine in the midst of this sad time. You were always there your whole family for me there when I needed a family. the Fabrizio's are the best and my love and my sadness and my condolences and my sorrow go to you and your family especially watching your tribute and those beautiful songs it all pertains to the wonderful love that magnifies The way Christopher was I'm sure. God bless baby girl I love you Jim.

You are loved by all Chris. You are sweet and kind, gentle and patient, a wonderful husband, great dad and considerate friend. You've left us too soon. You've left a little of your heart and spirit with all of us. Thank you for being in our lives. To know you is to love you. God bless you forever. Aunt Joan ❤️🙏❤️ Beautiful Martine, he was all of those things, even though I only met him a half dozen times, I was struck by his kindness. After Alex's dad passed, a bond was built. A hard day Sunday will be. Alex is in the Navy, so it's a little less hard, but you never forget, nor would you want to. Hang in there sweet girl! Your boys are so strong! So are you! Thank you for sharing!

“ This was so sad to hear. I grew up with Chris and had some great times! Over time we went on with our own lives and didn't keep in touch. Chris was a true good person that wouldn't hurt a fly. One great memory I want to share is when we challenged him to eat a whole box of Dunkin Donuts and he ended up eating 6 within minutes! We had some fun times!

To the entire family, I offer my condolences and am so sorry for your loss...I know Chris will be missed!

“ Chris was one of those guys that you just loved when you met him. He radiated kindness, thoughtfulness and gentleness. He was never too busy to take the time to chat with family, friends and neighbors. Chris had a gentle soul. You knew in a moment that he was a great husband and dad, and friend. The loss of Chris in the family is devastating. Losing Chris is a huge loss to everyone who knew him. But my feeling is that Chris will choose to hover over his family, guide them and protect them through the coming years. I just wish he could have stayed on this earth for another 50 years. You will be deeply missed Chris. We all love you.
